would like to congratulate you on the purchase of the RED FUZZ 1

Not everything is like back in the day. Many guitarists have lost at least one big privilege: To get to crank up a Marshall stack full-on during live gigs. Red Fuzz 1 has that classic over-saturated, thick Fuzzy sound you've probably heard more than once from the good old 60's and 70's. If not from others, then at least on albums by guitar legend Jimi Hendrix. But where the fat Fuzzy guitar sound from the 60' and 70's mostly comes from a cranked up amplifier with a Fuzz pedal in front, Red Fuzz 1 definitely doesn't need any help! It takes a classic Fuzz and a stack and crams them together into one single piece of fat and beefy rock'n roll hardware. So, bring your combo back this time... No need for a stack! Unlike the classic designs, Red Fuzz 1 also has built-in Fuzz-friendly buffers to make it more 'friendly' to the other pedals in your signal chain.
